JURY IN THE DOYLE CASE

Twelve Men Chosen to Decide the Gold tion of the superior court was concurred Mine Dispute.

COUNSEL CAUSE MUCH AMUSEMENT

Their Sailles of Wit at One Another Enliven the Outset of What Promises to Be a Warm Contest.

Contrary to expectation, the jury in the suit of James Doyle against James F. Burns, president of the Portland Gold Mining company, was selected before noon yesterday. A special venire on account of this case had been summoned for this term, but, with the exception of Alderman McDonald, who was taken from the special panel, the twelve men who will try the celebrated suit were selected from the regular panel.

This is the jury: Robert Green, Council Bluffs; A. Knight, Neola; T. A. Kirkwood, Crescent; I. S. Skelton, Loveland; J. C. Rhodabeck, Council Bluffs; Fred Holst, Treynor; J. C. Baldwin's Humor Enliveus.

The monotony of the selecting of the jury was enlivened somewhat by the incounsel for Doyle. Burns, having secured the services of several additional attorneys, is represented by a long list of lawyers, every one of whom it happens has a title to his name. Starting at the head noon of the list Mr. Baldwin would ask the juror if he was acquainted with United States Senator Patterson and then on down the line with former Governor Thomas, Judge Gunnell, Congressman Smith, Chancellor Ross, Colonel Saunders, winding up with plain "Mr." Flickinger. As Mr. Baldwin would lay especial stress siderable amusement for the court and when a juror was challenged. Sixing Up Challenged Jurors.

The ten lawyers for the defendant would rise from their seats to take a look at the challenged furor and this caused Mr. Baldwin to remark that inasmuch as the emi nent counsel for the defense were not proided with windows in their anatomies, h would request that they keep their seats in order that he might be able to get at least a glimpse of the jury as it was selected. This caused former Governor Thomas of Colorado, one of the principal lawyers for Burns, to make the remark that it was the first time in his life that he had been made aware that a man could not see through or around him. The former governor is very spare and very tall. Mr. Baldwin was, however, equal to the occasion and he courteously replied that it was his eminent opponent's mental avoirdupois that was in the way. These little sallies on the part of counsel did much towards enlivening the dull process of selecting the and other contents intact and all that will jury and furnished sufficient amusement for the lobby that the balliff was more

The opening statement to the jury for the plaintiff was made by Mr. Baldwin, who was followed by Mr. Thomas for the defendant. Mr. Baldwin occupied the attention of the jury for one hour, but Mr. Thomas consumed nearly two hours in presenting his side of the case.

James Doyle, accompanied by nineteen of his witnesses, arrived last evening from Colorado. The party is quartered at the Grand hotel. .

The above appeared yesterday morning as an advertisement in the Council Bluffs columns of The Omaha Bee, and thereby hangs a tale. A week ago Stevick, who is somewhat of a politician, was arrested on complaint of his wife, who charged him with disturbing the peace of their domicile while under the influence of liquor. Mrs. Stevick followed this up by filing notice $ 5,427 in the district court of her intention to bring suit for divorce and asking the custody of their minor children.

This was more than Stevick was looking for, but he realized he was up against it. MAPLE RIVER, Ia., Nov. 12.-(Special Telegram.)-People of this vicinity have interested themselves in the search that Sheriff Nestle is making for the person or persons who poisoned victuals on a table in Joseph Naberhaus' home, between here and Breda, last Sunday and which so nearly ended in the death of the Naberhaus family after they had caten of the food upon returning from evening church services. Mr. Naberhaus is a young farmer, apparently inoffensive, but he has suffered frequently in the recent past at the hands of someone who seems to cherish an aggressive hatred for him. About a year ago an attempt was made to poison his horses, but the poison was discovered in the feed box before the horses had caten any of it. At another time while he and his wife were attending a dance in the neighborhood someone en tered his barn and cut up the top of a new buggy. About a week ago he was husking corn and left the water jug in a corner of the field. When he returned later on to get a drink he found some poison on the mouth of the jug.

Union Men Said to Have Clubbed Non-Unionists as Latter Start to Leave.

OELWEIN, Ia., Nov. 12 .- (Special.) -A bad street riot followed the return of strikers to work in the Great Western shops last night and the discharge of the non-unionists. As soon as the nonunion men employed in the shops that a settlement had been affected they at once called for their time and started for the depot, only to be met by an angry crowd of the strikers and town sympathizers, beaten clubbed and chased like so many dogs. The strikers all along have been orderly until last night's scenes. There seemed to be no hand of the law raised to stop the assaulting attacks upon the men. The company says the mayor refuses to swear in enough officers to keep the peace and the few who are on duty are as good as none at all. One assault, that of a young apprentice boy, was so bold that the young man's father swore out warrants f they would only refuse to sell him any and two of the suspected parties have been frink that he could refrain from quenching arrested. In order to get the non-union men out of town the company has had to

Small parts of the safe were found there, probably having been gathered up with the money in the haste

The people of Des Moines are again having trouble over their army post. The matter of making a contract to secure water for the post is holding up negotiations and it is proposed once more that the city annex the land out to the army post and thus have power to extend the city water mains that far. The fact that the army commission is soon to meet to investigate all army posts is also causing some alarm. No work has yet been done on the Des Moines army post and nothing can now be done this year.
